This rotor, crafted in platinum and engraved with the initials of Collectors Watch Club, is more than a mechanical component it is a testament to bespoke craftsmanship and an emblem of exclusivity. Its presence within the movement is a quiet nod to the connoisseur, a discreet yet powerful symbol of sophistication.

Encased in stainless steel with a lustrous polish, the watch is adorned with rose gold indices that seem to glow from within, lending an aura of quiet opulence to the timepiece. Each element has been selected and executed with an eye toward timeless aesthetics and tactile refinement.

A Dial of Deeper Meaning: British Green Reimagined

At first glance, the dial's British Green hue evokes the heritage of classic automotive design and regal tradition. Yet in this edition, the green carries a more profound resonance. It draws inspiration from the Saudi emblem, where green is the color of vitality, growth, and heritage. This deep emerald tone is not merely decorative it is deeply symbolic.

The green represents the palm in the Saudi emblem, symbolizing prosperity and life. In contrast, the watch's golden indices echo the two golden swords, emblematic of strength, honor, and national pride. Together, these colors weave a subtle yet powerful narrative of the Kingdom's values resilience, progress, and rootedness in history.
